HOW TO CHOOSE YOUR GAA OFFICIAL REPRESENTATIVE

The designated GAA Official Representative will be the main contact between your company and the Gravure AIMCAL Alliance. As a corporate member of GAA, your company may have as many employees on our mailing list as it sees fit, but official business should be conducted via the Official Representative. The Official Representative's responsibilities are listed below.

1. VOTING RIGHTS

The Official Representative is responsible for voting on any changes to the GAA bylaws or other major decisions as decided by the GAA Board of Directors. This function cannot be designated to anyone other than the Official Representative.

2. PROVIDING COMPANY INFORMATION AND EMPLOYEE DATA TO GAA

Although the Official Representative is responsible for the following, any of these duties may be relegated to another employee/department. GAA will be happy to contact these designees directly, once they are named by the Official Representative.

About employees, the Official Representative:

- Decides which employees and company locations should be listed in GAA' Membership Directory
- Assigns a Location Representative for each location listed with GAA
- Determines which employees should be on the GAA mailing list, including additions and deletions due to personnel changes
- Advises GAA of changes to this list, such as address changes, phone, fax, and e-mail changes
- Provides to GAA the names of employees who might be interested in serving on a GAA Committee or Council, or who may be interested in acting as a speaker or moderator at GAA events

About providing company information:

- The Official Representative will, when possible, provide the names of the appropriate personnel for GAA to contact regarding public relations, marketing, human resources, trade shows, environmental issues, safety and health issues, and finances/purchasing. By providing these names, we can serve you better by focusing our mailings and assuring you get the most out of your membership with GAA.
- The Official Representative should let GAA know about acquisitions, new plants or plant expansions, and new products. In addition, the Official Representative should ensure that GAA receives important press releases and other company news that may be of interest to the gravure industry.
- The Official Representative is responsible for completing the forms for the Buyers' Guide edition of GRAVURE, and will receive the application information for the annual Golden Cylinder Awards.

3. BILLING INFORMATION

The Official Representative will receive the bill for the annual dues, unless arrangements are made to have it sent to another department/employee.
